Best advice is to charge the higher batteries first, then the low batteries. Usually if they are in the 80 s, they will charge over 95% in a couple of hours and the lower batteries around 5-7 hours so you can leave those charging until they are ready to be deployed in the morning.

python - Multi-recursive functions - Stack Overflow

I'd like to be pointed toward a reference that could better explain recursion when a function employs multiple recursive calls. I think I get how Python handles memory when a function employs a single instance of recursion.
